The present invention relates to a medical liquid supply device, and in particular, to a medical liquid supply device intended to be connected to a plurality of syringes or intravenous solution bags, and which employs a shutter valve having a wide change rate of cross-sectional area, thereby achieving a high-response liquid discharge to a container. Up to now, a liquid sample in a syringe is discharged by means of a syringe pump. There has been known a device in which a tube is attached to a plunger of a syringe, and the tube is provided with a capillary plug, and for the purpose of preventing the liquid from leaking out of the capillary plug, a liquid discharge operation is made possible by dropping the plug off, as explained in Japanese Patent Application Laid-Open (Kokai) No. 6-315776. In the above-mentioned liquid delivery device, however, there are some problems. Since the liquid discharge operation has to be achieved by dropping the capillary plug off, the response rate is not very high. Moreover, it is difficult to control the flow rate. In consideration of the foregoing, it is a principal object of the present invention to provide a medical liquid supply device that enables a high response, quick discharge of the liquid, and a stable flow rate of the liquid. The medical liquid supply device of the present invention comprises a housing portion, a first housing chamber forming a first cross sectional area in the housing portion, and a second housing chamber forming a second cross sectional area smaller than the first cross sectional area; and a shutter valve installed in the first housing chamber and second housing chamber so as to be open and closed, the shutter valve opening and closing the passage that allows to flow the liquid between the first housing chamber and the second housing chamber, wherein the shutter valve is driven to open and close so as to be open and closed at a predetermined period, and the passage is opened and closed at a predetermined rate of change when the shutter valve opens and closes. Q: Creating a "split" reference list in LyX I have a number of questions that I need to research; these I need to refer to in my final year dissertation. Rather than create a new chapter or new section for each question, I want to use a "split" reference list, in which I include the reference at the beginning of

A Clemson University professor was arrested Wednesday and charged with seven counts of sexual battery by a custodian, the Miami Herald reported. Notre Dame football coach Brian Kelly announced a day after the arrest that Cam Newton had been reinstated from suspension while the university's Title IX office investigated the allegations. Syracuse defense lineman Dwayne Thomas said Tuesday in a since-deleted post on Twitter that he was “pissed” at Newton because the quarterback had a prior history of sexual misconduct. “Nobody deserves to be sexually abused,” Thomas wrote in a now-retracted tweet. “It’s especially not a person who is the golden child. It’s a person who does not deserve such abuse.” ADVERTISEMENT Thomas also wrote that Newton was told during a meeting with university police and Title IX investigators before the arrest to prepare for a polygraph exam, according to the Herald. Thomas had also written that Newton had “gotten away with this” and “tried to walk it off.” Thomas has deleted the Twitter account he used to post the accusations. ESPN removed Newton from its year-end awards show on Dec. 11 for a “failure to cooperate in the investigation,” according to the Herald. Newton was nominated for the Sportsmanship Award, which is chosen by the Athletes for Athletes Foundation. Newton, a Heisman Trophy finalist this season, was the subject of the media report that sparked the NCAA’s investigation into the Heisman winner. A lawsuit that Clemson players filed against Newton alleges that he “repeatedly used his personal service to lure underage females into sexual encounters” and engaged in other misconduct during trips to New York.
