I have a slider that I am using, and I have a button that I am using to fire the function. The problem is that I can't get the script to execute after the page finishes loading, it only works when I click the button. $(document).ready(function(){ $('#s2').cycle({ fx: 'fade', timeout: 4000, next: '#s5', pause:

Windows 7 serial key crack for Mac OS X. Q: How to use multiple named parameters in MySQL function? I'm using the MySQL native functions f_instr(), f_status() and f_length(). f_instr() is used to check if a field contains a token string. The returned value is the token string itself, or NULL if it doesn't match. f_status() determines the status of a field, e.g. "D" or "U". f_length() determines the length of a field. I have some queries which will perform one of these three checks on the column values and I need to use f_instr() and f_status() in the same query. If the results are all NULL, then I need to determine the length of the field to produce a NULL value. Here's my current query: SELECT T1.col1, T1.col2 FROM T1 WHERE ( f_instr(T1.col1, 'b') 0 AND (f_status(T1.col1) = 'B' OR
f_status(T1.col1) = 'U') AND e79caf774b
