The castle town of Ritsumeikan is a Kingdom where the men are brave, the women are beautiful, and the dragons are magnificent. The ruling count of this castle town, Chiolala, is an ambitious man who likes to challenge other big bosses of the North. He has gained control of the Southeast region, since back then. But the kingdom is in revolt! The people of the northern town, Kazakiri, have been poor and starving for a long time. So, they have taken up arms, and declared war against the government. The count still rules the town, but it's in chaos. This strange rebellion of northern people have stretched across the northeastern region. The war is going on in two places at once: the town of Ritsumeikan and the northern region. To put an end to the war, the king has called the hero Rafael. He is a young man who had once been a strong adventurer but has lost his power in the world of Ritsumeikan. Rafael has been called up as a knight to hunt down the rebel of the north, which has broken out of the northern region and come to the castle town of Ritsumeikan. To finish the war, he has to do battle with the rebels armed with the power of dragons. However, the castle town and the rebellion are two different worlds. The one is dominated by the king, and the other is not at all under the control of the king. As the war goes on, two different worlds collide. This is how the story of the war against the rebellion unfolds! ■ Turn-based battles with dragons! You can set the battle between a man and a dragon into turn-based battle. You can use the fourth weapon from the Mage, use Job Change moves, and set the rotation order of the party members. You can also create a party of your own characters to fight turn-based battles. ■ Ambition of the Heroes Have you ever thought of a warrior, who did not want to change his/her job to the Mages, who was not good at Magic, and the character with low-MP. Well, that's not an ordinary hero, and that's not just there. There is a special NPC for you who can be achieved by using Job Change. You can also set this character as a party member, and change his/her job to the Mage. You can battle with the
