Fireborn Studios are looking for a talented composer who will create the soundtrack for their upcoming medieval RPG. An experienced composer will be responsible for creating a beautiful soundtrack that will be played by a band. The game is due for release early 2019. You will be developing your soundtrack from start to finish, working with the producer and designer to create something unique and varied. Your session will be just a short three months so make sure you're able to deliver an awesome soundtrack. About the Role: You will be responsible for creating beautiful music that encapsulates the atmosphere of this medieval themed RPG. Your sessions will be limited, but you'll have the chance to create several different tracks that range from 11 to 15 minutes in length. What you'll need: * Minimum of 5 years' experience in creating music in the RPG genre * You must be able to communicate well with the production team * Some experience in creating a soundtrack for a game * Experience with coding plugins * Able to create music from your creativity rather than from presets * Able to work and listen to music outside of your normal style * In-depth knowledge of composing and arranging using orchestral, acoustic, electronic and modern styles * Pro active in DM's social media, including Twitter, Facebook and Instagram About the Composer: Fireborn Studios are looking for a composer who can take the lead and create a unique soundtrack that encapsulates the fantastical mood of an RPG. You will be working with the composer on day one, creating the music from start to finish. The composition will be 4 songs long, and should encapsulate the incredible mood of a medieval fantasy world. The songs will be constructed using a pre-composed theme, with the right emotional effects across all tracks to create a memorable sonic experience. Things to consider: * You must be able to create music on your own with live instrumentation * You should be able to work within deadlines and complete deliverables * You need to be able to create music from your creativity rather than from presets * In-depth knowledge of composing and arranging * The composer will be responsible for creating a unique and memorable soundtrack, so creativity is key * If you create a memorable soundtrack you can benefit from this position and I will look at promoting your name within the industry Additional Information: We are a new indie game developer based in Dublin, Ireland, but the team can move to any location if necessary. We create new and innovative games, so working with us c9d1549cdd

----- The gameplay, both in single-player and multiplayer is the most realistic and authentic drift racing experience of all time. In the single-player mode you will race in more than 30 attractive tracks, with a great variety of difficulty levels. In multiplayer mode the players are placed in rooms with other players of the same level. In multiplayer mode the difficulty level is fixed in the rooms. Time limits are often used. The race begins after the welcome screen. Before that you need to drive for several laps in order to learn the drift and the car's behaviour. Along the path with the title you will discover new cars and locations. There is a game-meter with which you can determine your score in the main game. The game has a very generous car swap system. You can swap one car for another in a matter of seconds. The following variables affect the car swap: Speed, traction, geometry and braking system. Every car has its own unique behavior. They react very sensitively to every traction, different hand positions, car shaking, and contact. The car is not damaged during the race. Even without damage to the vehicle you can choose to stop in a technical pit and repair your car in order to increase the acceleration and braking. The exclusive addition to this DLC, compared to the regular edition of the game, are the trak. The trak's most important feature is the deformation force. In the regular edition of the game the general value of the deformation force is affected only by the traction which is at the expense of the velocity in the case of strong traction or a reduced velocity in the case of low traction. In CarX Drift Racing Online - Deluxe, the deformation force is affected not only by the traction but also by the velocity of the car. This increased deformation force reduces the acceleration and deceleration of the car at the expense of the drift. Along with this the drift radius of the car increases. The deformation force is increased along with the drift radius. This means that the deeper you drift, the greater the deformation force and the greater the reduction in acceleration. Meanwhile, along with the unique deformation force of the trak, the trak also features its own different steering. You can do the drift much more quickly with this steering. The transition between drift and no drift is almost fluid. Another feature of the trak are different lean angles and different lean angles at the same speed. The lean angles determine the drift angle and the drift radius which means that a lean

3. The Journey Begins 11. My art “Especially when one tries to grapple with life as art, with the self as artwork, one is exposed to constant threats from all directions. For the authentic work of art is not only responsible for its own fate. It opposes its fate, it will not conform in anything. In the world of fear and anxiety, it whoans against the everyone and everything. In love it remains itself and together with its opposite, its partner. It does not take sides but lets itself go, let be its fate.” Simone Weil The importance of risk in the path of the artist, 2016

Though my recent grant application was accepted, I have not commenced in earnest on this project yet, because I require a few more months of R&D and refining. Not only Do I am not planning to start this work as an artistic statement - though it may be so - but I am trying to find a thread that runs from the details of the story. Does this make sense to anyone else?. I am not a follower of much art-ism these days - but I do pay attention to matters that make me inspired to create in the realms of art. Questions that I can't stop now: 1. Where do things stand today between the chaos and order in my life? I would love to tie things all up with a red bow, but as I have mentioned there's a slow pace in the beginning of this journey, and it will take some time before that may happen. But I'm hoping, I'm hoping. 2. How does one create a creative environment? Because, if I must say so, I do not like the DIY, or I do not like doing things by myself. But, reading your comments again, it is a thought provoking discourse, and the need for me to think about that has roused in me to reinvigorate this project. So, the journey begins. But what should be the next step? I guess that I need to know this too - since I do not have yet a vision what is my future plan of action. With my past Diasporic background and my recent professional experiences, how can I find the way to this challenge that I seek? I find you turn out to be very genuine - in the sense of giving yourself fully to the pursuit of your art, without holding back anything. Not many people would show such courage.
