inside a method override in derived class I'm a junior developer learning Java and trying to optimize a method.

Specifically, I have a method in a base class, Repository which is a Spring data repository. This method getEntities returns a list of some kind. Each instance is of a subclass of Repository. class Parent{ public List getEntities(){ // some code } } class ChildA extends Parent{ // some code } class ChildB extends Parent{ // some code } In ChildA and ChildB class, I want to override the base method getEntities, and in getEntities I want to pass the type of class that is being overridden. Now here is the problem. I can't just make a method such as private List getEntities(Class type){ // some code } because I don't know what type is being overridden, only that it is a subclass of Repository. I need something like this, but what code should go in the brackets? private List getEntities(Class type){ List superClassList = type.getSuperclass().getEntities(); List subclassList = type.getInstanceList(); // and here I access the subclass, but how? // and can I really do it with all these objects without null checks? } A: You can't do that, the only way you can achieve that is to pass the Class as parameter of the method: private List getEntities(Class type, List par) { List superClassList = type.getSuperclass().getEntities(); List subclassList = type.getInstanceList(); // and here I access the subclass, but how? // and can

The Sia2K ROM has 3 entries, each of which is 20 bytes. In addition to the entries in the KS1641 ROM, there is an additional entry for the MEGA Drive. Data is loaded into the MEGA Drive's memory using the DMC2082's MIDI output. Finally, the MEGA Drive has enough internal ROM space to address internal ROMs, and thus, in a sense, constitutes its own ROM. The extra data is addressed using the DMC2082 and accessed through the MIDI output. It is also necessary to issue certain commands to the DMC2082 to set the "number of steps." Make Bezier curve to simplify the drawing. To the vuser, line should be a curve, not a straight line! When making the curve, click right away to start drawing. However, draw should not be too hard to create, and the finished picture can be printed by the color printer and saved in the

To accomplish this the two tables were linked via the column "ID" in the table "product" and the corresponding column "ID" in the table "partner". The column "id" is the primary key of this table. Whenever a partner wants to find a product he checks if there is a matching record in the table "partner" and then updates the columns "id" and "partner" of that record. Tableau is an excellent tool to make presentations as it provides many features to create beautiful and professional looking presentations. It can make a wide variety of charts. Most charts in Tableau are very easy to create and can be styled to look extremely professional. In the following example you can see a Varchar 1004 1cdb36666d
