|| I've noticed that some responses do not post A: Your issue is the content of each 'post_content' field is wrapped in a (paragraph) tag. See: WordPress get_post_meta() with non-html_content As such, there is no way to parse the text content with simple regex. As I'm sure you're aware, there are several plugins that can handle this, some of which are listed here:

WordPress Paste WP Advanced Editor WP Markdown Editor Custom Editor However I don't have experience with any of them - I just know these are the most common plugins/solutions to this problem. Q: How can I get to a hardcoded image in a JLabel from an ActionListener? I have a JLabel in which I want to display a picture of a door. I have a method in my ActionListener that will take in a string value as a parameter and then add an image of that door to the JLabel. The problem that I am facing is that the JLabel.setIcon(); method expects an icon that is a.png. I would like to have a method that will take in the door number or address that is hardcoded into the JLabel as an image instead of a file. Here is what I have currently. Any advice would be greatly appreciated!

public static void addDoor() { ImageIcon door = new ImageIcon(PictureLocation.DoorOne); JLabel doorLabel = new JLabel("Door Number One"); doorLabel.setIcon(door); JFrame frame = new JFrame("Testing"); frame.add(doorLabel); frame.setSize(800, 600); frame.setDefaultCloseOperation(JFrame.EXIT_ON_CLOSE); frame.setVisible(true); } private static void actionPerformed(ActionEvent event) { String doorNum = event.getActionCommand(); if (event.getSource() instanceof JButton) { JButton button = (JButton) event.getSource(); if (button.getText().equals("6d1f23a050"))
