Before deleting the partition I was running Disk Utility and just clicked the Erase and create new partition option. So I now have two unallocated partitions and two still named partitions. How do I replace them. Can I use something like Gparted to replace them? I've been reading through the Gparted Manual but I'm having trouble replacing them. Thanks! A: If you used GParted before creating the partitions, you can use that. If not, and you want to do it with the Linode's GUI (which I'm assuming you're doing with a Linode), you can use the GParted live iso, which comes with GParted on it, though you'll have to find a way to boot off of it on the Linode. There's also the GParted live iso, which comes 79a2804d6b
